

TOWN & COUNTY NEWS.

DALLAS, SATURDAY, AUG. 27, 1870.

The Senatorial Question.

The Bulletin still insists that Democrats are inclined to vote for Williams for the next Senator, upon the flimsy pretext that he favors a railroad through Southern Oregon.

If we are correctly informed, Mr. Williams is heavily interested in the city of Portland, and we suppose, in fact, all his pecuniary interests are there, and, of course, he counts his wealth by thousands.

And on May 30, 1868, a few days before the election, the editor, in speaking of the reconstruction on the plan of negro suffrage, said:

It was for the purpose of building and operating a railroad from the base line, at or near the Columbia river, to the California line. The State of Oregon has donated that monstrous grant to a certain company, of which Ben Holladay is chief; and now, this huge monopolist, through his organ and mouth-piece, the pig-trainer, puts on the cheek to proclaim to the people that, unless they will assure him, by the election of Williams, that no other road shall ever be built in Oregon, he will not extend his further than Eugene City.

The Oregonian Always Favored Universal Negro Suffrage!

The Oregonian would have the people believe that the Union party and its own columns had always favored universal negro suffrage.

It ought not to be forgotten that the adoption of universal negro suffrage in the District of Columbia and throughout the South is due directly to the Democratic Representatives in the last Congress.

Again, in its issue of March 21st, same year, we find the following:

"Mr. Sumner introduced a bill to enforce the article in the Constitution abolishing slavery, by securing the elective franchise to all colored citizens. It provides that every citizen of whatever race or color, shall have the right to vote at all elections; State laws to the contrary notwithstanding.

This proposition is therefore a very old story. The present bill, if it obtains any further attention, will share the fate of its predecessors. But there are a few men in Congress, like Sumner and Stevens, who, no doubt, will continue regularly to bring forward this proposition during the remainder of their natural lives—if their terms of office should last so long.

Eastern journals on the subject, in which he takes ground that the proposed measure is entirely in harmony with the Constitution, being fully authorized by the latest amendment to that instrument. Of course Senator Sumner will be able to produce a prodigious array of learned arguments to support his doctrine; but there are a few persons who can be convinced that a clause of the Constitution which does not contain the most distant allusion to suffrage grants the power to Congress which the Senator claims.

In its columns of May 30th, same year, and just prior to the election of 18 8, we find this:

"The Union party has never taken the ground that Congress has the power to regulate the suffrage in the loyal States, and therefore the Chicago platform declares that the question of suffrage in all loyal States properly belongs to the people of those States."

May 29, 1866, the Oregonian said: "The Herald impudently lies when it says Sumner's proposition to secure suffrage to the negroes in the late rebellious States had been agreed upon in caucus. The fact is, his suffrage proposition has been rejected by the Reconstruction Committee, it being agreed that the question of suffrage should be left to the States respectively. The members of Congress have repudiated the negro suffrage idea at several different times during the present session. The Union party of the United States has repudiated it. That party is not for negro suffrage."

May the 12th, 1866, the Oregonian says: "How manifestly dishonest, then, is it for Democrats to use the name of President Johnson to aid them in securing a political victory, claiming that he is opposed to negro suffrage. The truth is Congress has never declared in favor of giving the ballot to the negro, while the President has done so. Even if it were true that the Radicals were in favor of it, wherein would they differ on this matter from Mr. Johnson?"

Is that so, Mr. Oregonian. If it is, then you simply prove that President Johnson was right, and the Union party then was wrong, and that to-day you are the convert of "Andy."

November 23d, 1867, its editor said: "Congress hesitated long before giving the blacks suffrage, and only did it when it was clear there was no other way to put down the rebel element."

Was it necessary that it should be made universal, and that all Africa should be directly invited to come here and vote, in order to put down the rebel element? Again, from the same column, we find this:

"Not satisfied with declaring against negro suffrage here—a measure which nobody ever declared for—the Ensign now also opposes impartial suffrage at the South and thinks 'the negro voting experiment a ridiculous failure.'"

Did the Oregonian declare for universal negro suffrage then? We could fill our columns with extracts from the Oregonian showing that, both two and four years ago, it emphatically denied that the Union party favored universal negro suffrage. Of course we have misrepresented the Oregonian; but, if so, it is because we have not exhibited one-half the proof concerning its changeableness.

It will be remembered that in January last we said, to our friends in Polk, that whatever party in Oregon in the coming campaign, who shall endorse the principle and policy of the Fifteenth Amendment, would be defeated, and if both the present organizations should endorse it, then a third would rise and put them down; and now we declare with the most unwavering confidence that whatever party, in 1872, shall endorse the same principle and policy, including, as it naturally does, the enfranchisement of all Africa and China, will meet with an ignominious defeat. The people, all over this broad land, are opposed to universal suffrage.

The Union Republican party must retrace its steps on that subject, or, with all its brilliant victories and splendid achievements, soon be counted among the organizations that was, but is not.

Telegraphic Summary.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A private cable dispatch from London dated 12 o'clock to-day, says that the armies of King William and General Steinmetz are too seriously crippled to assume the offensive.

It is given out on high authority Bazaine was reinforced from Chalons, on Sunday, for the purpose of giving battle to the enemy near Metz. He is confident of victory, when he will march upon the army of the Crown Prince, and rescue Paris.

A report has reached London of a French victory. Another special says Bazaine was at Metz yesterday, and had the north and center entirely open to him, either to retreat or receive reinforcements.

The news of the appalling Prussian losses has sent a thrill of horror throughout Germany. Bazaine professes to be master of the situation.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Bazaine has forced a passage via Autien, reaching Montmedy.

It is reported that the forces of the Prince Royal and Prince Frederick Charles have formed a junction westward of Metz.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Private dispatches from Paris say McMahon has completely turned tables on the Crown Prince.

The change of the French armies for the line of the Moselle to Metz and Verdun proves a serious blow to the Prussians. McMahon, with 130,000 veterans has thrown himself between the army of the Crown Prince and that of King William, and has effected a junction with Bazaine's left wing at Verdun. The Prussian position is considered perilous. Their army is cut in two, with the united French left wing at Metz, to prevent them from shortening their long line.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The following has just been received from Alexandria: The Prussian frigate Bertha, carrying 28 guns, has been captured by the French. No particulars are given.

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 21.—This morning about 9 o'clock, two little daughters of Charles B. Paul, who has just arrived from Minnesota, were struggling for the possession of a small pistol, when it exploded, and the youngest, aged about nine years, was shot through the breast and expired in a few minutes.

A Startling Truth.—Hundreds die annually from neglected coughs and colds, when by the use of a single bottle of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry their lives could be preserved to a green old age.

The Order of the Day.—A general order for Sweden. In the teeth of all opposition it has become the supreme dentrice of the age.

No impurity can infect the teeth cleaned daily with Soudon, Quilley, the bark of the Chilean Soap Tree, an article which possesses cleansing properties superior to those of any other known substance. Soudon is the only dentrice in existence in which this salutary botanical product is incorporated.

MARRIED.

SLEPPY—BROWN.—At the residence of Mr. McDonald, in Dallas, by J. H. Turner, J. P., Mr. Wm. Sleppy of Yamhill county to Miss Nancy Brown of Polk county.

STATE ITEMS.

On Tuesday, at noon, Curry, the only son of Rev. L. L. Rowland, of Fifteen Mile Creek, was drowned in the waste reservoir on the bluff back of Dallas.

Messrs. Longmire & Rankin, of Morrison Basin, recently rocked out $257, in seven days, from the claim bought of Mr. Kriss. That is rocking to some purpose.

Says the Albany Register: "As high as 85 cents per bushel was paid by our buyers for wheat last week, but news of depression in Europe and the East has sent it down to old quotations—75 cents.

Democratic financiering has got Wasco county deeply in debt. Most of the indebtedness has been incurred illegally and by sharp practice. The Mountaineer says the people can "equitably adjust," if they see fit to do so.

James M. Townsend, of Salem, has died from the effects produced by having a corn on his foot operated upon by an itinerating chiroprast. Mortification ensued, and all attempts to check its progress failed. It is thought the knife of the operator was poisoned.

Messrs. Quinn & Barnhart' while constructing a ditch to turn the water through the brook, in their diggings in Amelia city, Baker county, unearthed the skull of a buffalo. The dirt in the skull was washed out, and gold to the amount of twelve dollars was found therein.

The Mountaineer of Saturday says: "Mr. Wm. H. Clarke, of Canyon City, called on us yesterday. He corroborates the statement in regard to the destructive fire at Canyon City; but says that nearly all the goods in the fire-proof cellars were saved. They had commenced rebuilding the town when he left.

The Statesman tells of a volcano eruption of recent date on Butte Creek, Marion county, six miles above Cooper's coal mine. This great curiosity was discovered by a man named Whitlow last September, and is supposed to have occurred the June previous, as the fern of last year's growth is partly covered by the eruption.

The Bulletin says last evening about half past five o'clock, Mr. Z. D. Bones, a young man well known in the city, accidentally fell overboard from a wood saw which was moored opposite the saw mill of Estes & Stimpson, and was drowned. After several hours search with grappling irons the body was recovered and taken to the Armory Hall of the Washington Guard, where it is still kept. There being no evidence whatever of foul play in the manner of his death, it was not thought necessary to go through the formalities of a Coroner's inquest over the remains. We learn that it is the intention of the Washington Guard to bury the body with all the military honors.

On the 16th inst. the Maine Democratic Convention assembled at Bangor and nominated Charles W. Roberts for Governor. All efforts to induce the present Republican Governor (Chamberlain) to accept the nomination failed. The election will take place on the 12th September.—Oregonian
